

May 25, 2012

Dear Family and Friends,

This is just a quick update about what has been happening in my life recently.

1. I successfully readjusted to American Culture (thank you for the prayers!)
2. Last Saturday I graduated from Emmaus Bible College with my Bachelors degree in Missions
3. On Sunday, I got the go-ahead from God and my elders to go to Ireland on a missions trip with TnT teams!

I've been thinking and praying about going to Ireland since around March while I was still in Kenya. When I arrived back in the states, I didn't think it would be possible for me to go due to trying to find a job and a place to live. Since then, God has provided a place to stay until the end of June, and He has provided a job at my school, but this job ends on Thursday which frees me up to go to Ireland. This was a crazy hard and scary decision, but I have faith that God can provide a job for me when I get back in June just as well as He can now.

So I am headed to Ireland. I will be leaving next Wednesday the 23rd and will be back in the states on June 14th. I will be going with an organization based out of Canada called TnT (teach and testify) teams. This will be a 3 week intense evangelism trip with street evangelism, door-to-door, kid's clubs, literature distribution, as well as encouraging the local believers there. I went on this trip after my freshman year at Emmaus, and have always wanted to go back. I'm so glad that God has opened this door for me. For this trip I will be trying to send out updates as I did on my internship, hopefully one a week letting everyone know what's going on. I was able to scrap together enough money for a ticket there, and I have faith that God will provide the rest. Please pray though, prayer is what I need the most. I wasn't expecting that I would be traveling overseas so soon after graduation and my internship, but God had other plans. I'm excited about this trip because I know God is going to do amazing things!

In Him,
Jen